SHIP YARD WORKERS THREATEN TO STRIKE

SENATE COMMITTEE TO VISIT BACK BONE OF STEEL MILL DISTRICT

Kenyon Announces Investigation Will Open in Pennsylvania City Friday--Probe Will be Carried Into Surrounding Steel Centers--Answer to Invitation From McKeepsport.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30.—The senate will carry its investigation of the steel strike directly into the trouble-ridden Pittsburgh district next Friday. Senator William S. Kenyon, chairman of the education and labor committee of the senate, announced today that unless the league of nations situation in the senate interferes, his committee which is conducting the investigation of the strike will reopen its investigation Friday on Pittsburgh and continue it for three days, Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

While Senator Kenyon announced that the labor investigators would visit the "Pittsburgh district," the committee undoubtedly will carry its investigation into such surrounding steel centers as McKeesport and other towns where John Fitzpatrick, chairman of the steel strikers' national committee, charged there had been "terrorism" against the strikers by the Pennsylvania state constabulary and the steel mill guards. Senator Kenyon's announcement followed closely the receipt of an invitation to the committee to come to Pittsburgh from the McKeesport chamber of commerce which stated that "aspirations" had been cast against that city by the steel strike.

FOSTER, STEEL STRIKE LEADER, IS CALLED TO WASHINGTON

By GEO. R. HOLMES.

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 30.—William Z. Foster, eastern director of the steel strikers, was summoned to Washington today to appear before the senate committee on education and labor, which is conducting an investigation into the strike. Foster was requested to appear on next Thursday morning at 10 o'clock.

Senator Kenyon's committee desires specifically to question Foster concerning his radical ideas of government as expressed in his book on "Syndicalism" in 1912, and his later book on "Trade Unionism" written in 1915.

The following telegram was received from Senator Kenyon:

"Your telegram received requesting the committee to visit the Pittsburgh district. Hope arrangements can be made for the committee to visit that district and take testimony the latter part of this week or the first of next. The time of coming is dependent upon the voting on the amendments to the peace treaty. Committee desires you to appear before it on Thursday morning at 10 o'clock."

Foster replied that he would be on hand at the time requested.

The news that Senator Kenyon's committee will come to Pittsburgh to hold hearings was greeted with enthusiasm at strike headquarters to day. The strike leaders plan to lay all their grievances before the committee.

The national steel strike in Pittsburgh and western Pennsylvania, the industry heart of the country, has reached a state of stagnation or snail-like progress in which neither side can see a quick decision.

The "crucial" days of the strike which both sides confidently hoped would see the making or breaking of the strike have passed without doing either. Only a stampede of the strikers back to the mills of a stampede of the workers from the mills can now give either side the clear cut decision it craves.

The "bogey man" of the steel operators is government intervention looking to a compromise. If Washington does not "butt in" as one steel man put it, all the steel interests have to do is to lay back and watch the strike win itself. Financial resources, the heavy sego artillery of the companies, will provide victory in the long run. Steel officials can continue to eat indefinitely on their resources; strikers can't, though they are admittedly fairly well "heated" for this strike.

The strike element, particularly the leaders, today would welcome federal intervention with it almost certain compromise. They believe there could be no compromise conceivable which would not give them the right of collective bargaining and force Judge Gary to do what the strike has failed to do—recognize their organization. Thus they figure that a compromise is a victory.

This, in some measure, accounts for the comparative tranquility of the situation to date. Strike leaders are con-

UP TO COX TO CALL ELECTION

Special Vote May Be Taken to Fill Vacancy In Youngstown State Senatorial District.

COLUMBUS, Sept. 30.—Whether or not Governor Cox will call a special election in the Youngstown state senatorial district to choose a successor to the late State Senator Davis, is the political gossip here today. There is sufficient time to place the name of the candidates on the November ballot. Republican leaders say the law is mandatory that an election be called. Lieutenant-Governor Brown and State Clerk Halley officially notified Governor Cox of Davis' death today.

Attention here is called to the fact that Governor Cox did not call a special election in the fourteenth congressional district at the death of Congressman Bathrick.

The Youngstown senatorial district is Republican.

PREDICT ADVANCE IN POTTERY WARE PRICES

A general advance in the price of pottery ware to meet the recent wage increase and advanced cost of materials will be announced by pottery manufacturers of the East Liverpool district early in October, it was predicted Tuesday.

The new biennial wage scale signed a few weeks ago is figured at approximately seven per cent, instead of five per cent, in estimating the final cost of the finished product. The increase in the price of ware is expected to approximate between five and ten per cent.

C. OF C. WILL ACT ON TWO-MILL LEVY

Ask Commissioners for Outline of Contemplated Use of Funds In Event Proposal Is Adopted.

Action of the Chamber of Commerce on the proposed two-mill levy for county road purposes to be submitted to the electors at the general election November 4 will be based upon an outline of the use to be made of the funds derived from the levy to be furnished the commercial body this week by the county commissioners.

Formal request for a tentative outline of the proposed road improvement program in Columbiana county in the event the issue is approved by the county electors was filed with Commissioners John F. Kerr, Salineville, and J. H. Hinchcliffe, Lisbon, at a joint meeting of the municipal and county affairs and the roads and streets committees of the Chamber of Commerce Monday night.

The issue debated at Monday night's meeting centered largely upon the question raised by City Solicitor R. G. Thompson in a recent communication to school authorities of this city in which he intimated that the electors must choose between good schools or improved roads.

Advocates of the two-mill levy, which is estimated to raise approximately $2,000,000 for road purposes outside municipalities within ten years, declared that there is a crying need for improved roads in Columbiana county; that several gaps in important thoroughfares should be completed and that the issue would mean the diverting of farm produce from the Youngstown markets to East Liverpool and other Columbiana county cities.

Opponents of the measure, on the other hand, took the stand that if the issue is approved it would jeopardize the passage of future school levies and that it would simply increase the already overburdened municipalities without materially benefiting them.

Plans of the county commissioners for the expenditure of the fund as outlined in the program to be submitted to the joint committees of the Chamber of Commerce will bear weight in the recommendation to be filed with the board of directors of the commercial body when it meets to take a definite stand on the proposal.

"The railways services are much improved. Numbers of men are reporting for duty all over the country. The bus and tram workers may strike, but if they do the government is empowered to commandeer the lines."

"The next 24 hours probably will be the most critical in Great Britain's industrial history," declared J. H. Thomas, executive secretary of the National Union of Railway Men, in a speech at Clapham.

After saying that the railway men will not continue to refuse offers from other unions to go on sympathetic strike, Thomas continued:

"This action will force a showdown.

"Sympathetic strikes would greatly increase the government's problem of feeding, simultaneously heightening the danger between the classes."

If labor's own forecasts prevail, said Thomas, 250,000 transport workers and 800,000 coal miners will likely join the national strike.

The electricians have also offered to go out in sympathy, Thomas added.

The prediction that the transport workers would strike today in sympathy with the railway workers was

FLOOD VICTIMS SEEK AID HERE

An appeal to East Liverpool people to lend financial aid to the homeless population of Corpus Christi, Texas, scene of the recent disastrous hurricane, was made in a communication received by Mayor J. S. Wilson Tuesday from Clark Pease, chairman of the finance relief committee of the Texas town.

In his appeal Chairman Pease stated that at least 1,000 lives had been lost and a property loss of approximately $20,000,000 entailed by the hurricane which swept Corpus Christi and the Gulf coast a short time ago. The Red Cross has already gone to the aid of the destitute residents of the devastated districts but money is needed.

The communication was turned over by Mayor Wilson to J. S. Hilbert, chairman of the Civilian Relief Home Service section of the Red Cross. Funds of the local mercy organization cannot be used for any purpose other than local needs, Mr. Hilbert stated. Mr. Hilbert suggested a fund raised by popular subscription as the only means of meeting the appeal of the suffering Texans.

stantly urging their followers to peaceful procedure; they emphatically do not want at this time anything approaching a bloody riot to prejudice their cause and turn congressional and unpopular sympathy away from them.

All the plants of the United States Steel Corporation and its subsidiaries and the big plants in this district and the Bethlehem plants in Eastern Pennsylvania continued to operate today. Elsewhere they are fairly well up.

From Sharon and Farrell came reports today that with the resumption of the American Sheet and Tin Plate company's plants, all of the larger plants in the district are again in operation. Only some of the smaller plants remain closed.

Mill officials claim that more than 4,000 strikers have returned to work in the past few days.

New Castle reported that all plants are operating now, many of them nearly up to full capacity. Out of the 4,500 strikers in the district more than half have abandoned the strike and returned to work.

At strike headquarters today it was stated that things are getting in a bad way at the Homestead plants and at the plants of the Jones and Laughlin Company, the biggest independent mills in the district. It was asserted that these plants are mainly down, although they put up a skeleton appearance of being busy.

Reports from the union leaders at Bethlehem to national headquarters here were that the Bethlehem plants are 80 per cent down and that the mills are in hard straits.

A big mass meeting of strikers will be held in Labor temple in Pittsburgh tonight. They will be addressed by W. R. Rubin, attorney for the strikers' national committee.

Strike headquarters here added to their staff today a "publicity expert" in the person of Edwin Newdick, formerly with George Creel's committee on publicity, and the labor board in Washington.

YOUNGSTOWN, Sept. 30.—Steel operators in the Mahoning valley are preparing to open their plants which have been closed since the day the strike started.

Eight hundred men went into the Carnegie Steel company plant today. They were put to work making repairs for a general resumption of operations next Monday. It was reported that the Youngstown Sheet & Tube company would also attempt to operate on Monday.

Notices were posted by the Carnegie company today that all men would be paid in full and those not wishing to return would consider themselves discharged.

BETHLEHEM, Pa., Sept. 30.—The same conflict of figures which featured the initial stages in Pittsburgh, prevailed at the Bethlehem plants county authorities.

The two girls were taken into custody a few days ago on warrants and descriptions furnished by Probation Officer John McShane, of this city. The parents of the two appealed to Officer McShane to institute a search for them when they failed to return home after a reasonable length of time.

When the two were located at Pueblo, Probation Officer McShane immediately notified Sheriff W. B. Dalrymple in Lisbon who forwarded warrants for their arrest. They will be returned to their homes in this city at once.

The two United Presbyterian churches of East Liverpool will have no ministerial representatives at the Ohio Synod of the United Presbyterian church which opened Tuesday at Rix Mills, Ohio. Rev. Lewis Davison of Pittsburgh, new pastor of the First United Presbyterian church has not yet taken up his residence here while the Second United Presbyterian church in the East End is without a pastor.

Ministers attending the Rix Mills conclave represent a church membership of 14,000 scattered through Ohio, Pennsylvania, Michigan and West Virginia. The Synod of Ohio embraces the presbyteries of Steubenville, Detroit, Mansfield, Muskingum and Wheeling.

The sessions of the synod are being held in the new First United Presbyterian church in Rix Mills. The meet will close Wednesday.

PLAN TO FLOAT $100,000 ISSUE

Adoption of a resolution as prepared by members of the board of education Monday night, calling for the floating of a bond issue of $100,000, at a meeting of the board next Monday night will permit the board to immediately place that amount of bonds on sale to secure financial relief for the Wellsville public schools.

It was at first predicted that approximately $60,000 would be needed to take the schools through their financial troubles, but more complete reports submitted at the Monday night meeting of the board members raised that figure to $100,000. Issuance of the bonds is authorized through the passage of the city and school district emergency relief bill at the last session of the Ohio state legislature.

J. A. Forbes, Wellsville contractor, was awarded the bid for the construction of the new gymnasium and school auditorium by the board.

The Stanton Heating company of Martins Ferry was given the contract for the heating of the new structure.

STRATTON TO OPEN EMPIRE STONE QUARRY

H. E. Stratton, business man of the Toronto district, and son, have completed plans for the opening up of a stone quarry at Port Homer. The quarry there is said to contain one of the highest grades of pulp stone in the country.

The Stratton company, it is announced, will quarry the stone and manufacture it into grindstones of fine quality. The quarry is now being equipped with modern apparatus and, it is announced, will employ 75 to 100 men when completed and in full operation. The new works will add to Toronto's industrial activities.

It is probable that a chairman to conduct the campaign will be selected at a meeting of the executive committee at 7:30 o'clock next Monday night at Red Cross headquarters.

The sub-committee, composed of Mrs. J. C. Cattell, Mrs. F. S. Wade and Miss Nan Stevenson, meeting Monday night was instructed to take up the question of civilian relief work and home service work here. They will report at next Monday's meeting.

Labor Council Meeting. Trades and Labor council will meet Wednesday evening. A number of important topics will be considered.

CONCESSIONS FOR SHOPMEN

Several thousand shopmen, members of the six different railroad crafts, on the Cleveland & Pittsburgh division at Cleveland, Wellsville, Belaire and other railroad points in this district, will profit by the agreement just completed between the representatives of the railroad workers and the United States railroad administration covering wages and hours and conditions of work, it was announced Tuesday.

Among the important features of the agreement which has just been completed will be a uniform national contract for the workers, commonly known as shopmen, of the railroads, made up of the International Association of Machinists, International Association of Blacksmiths and Helpers, International Alliance of Sheet Metal Workers, International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, Brotherhood of Railway Carmen of America, Switchmen's Union of North America, Brotherhood of Railway Clerks and Brotherhood of Boilermakers and Iron Ship-builders.

The agreement provides for uniform wage scale for the various trades and crafts. The eight-hour day will be a part of the agreement, time and a half for overtime, unless for apprentices, a uniform allowance for meals and overtime for road service. Seniority regulations governing each craft are included.

President Ryan, of the Carmen's union, says that the agreement surpasses any ever made, inasmuch as it covers every railroad under government control and will be maintained when they are returned to their owners.

SUMMARY OF STEEL STRIKE

NINTH DAY.

The ninth day of the national steel strike showed little change in the strike situation generally except for a continuation of gains by the operators in the Pittsburgh and Western Pennsylvania districts. Conditions are approaching normal in the principal plants with more men returning to work.

The confidence of Wall street of the strike's ineffectiveness was apparent today when Crucible Steel rose to a new high level and other steel stocks were ready with slight gains.

The extension of the strike to the Bethlehem plants apparently has had little effect on the situation generally. The plants continue operation, although some departments are crippled.

At Waukegan, Ill., strikers have clashed with deputies and state authorities are ready to dispatch state troops to the scene if necessary.

Elsewhere in Cleveland, Youngstown, Chicago, and Wheeling, the situation is unchanged with plants for the most part idle.

At Waukegan, Ill., strikers have clashed with deputies and state authorities are ready to dispatch state troops to the scene if necessary.

Imagine beauty and burlesque intermingling with a lavish hand and excruciating happenings portrayed by the most accomplished comedians that can be found in the country.

Imagine these things and the average picture-goer will realize that a performance like this is a distinct novelty, also a decided treat.

At The Theatres

"THE COMMON CAUSE" AT STRAND THEATRE

Lieutenant Lawrence Grossmith, who was a well-known musical comedy star before he enlisted in the service of his country, bids fair to become one of the most popular stars in the film world as well.

His first important work on the silver sheet was in "The Common Cause," J. Stuart Blackstone's special, having been detailed to play the role of Tommy Atkins by the British-Canadian Recruiting Mission under whose auspices the picture was produced. By his performance in that special he fully realized Commodore Blackton's prediction that he would "walk away with the comedy honors of the picture," and won such unanimous approval of reviewers, exhibitors and spectators everywhere that the producer immediately opened negotiations with the British-Canadian Recruiting Mission to obtain his services for a principal role in the new Blackton feature, "A House Divided," which is being shown at the Strand theater Tuesday and Wednesday, was adapted by Anthony P. Kelly from "The Substance of His House."

In "A House Divided," Sylvia Breamer and Herbert Rawlinson, the Blackton co-stars, again have the leading roles, with Mr. Grossmith promising to give them a close race for stellar honors.

SPECIAL FILM SHOW AT CERAMIC THEATRE

When those who know a good thing visit the Ceramic theater Tuesday and Wednesday they will see one of the funniest farces that ever reached the celluloid—"No Mother to Guide Him." This comedy is a Paramount-Mack Sennett offering with Ben Turpin, Myrtle Lind, Charles Lynn, Baldy Belmont and others in the cast.

It is all about the efforts of a false friend to elope with his old pal's pretty wife and of how he is punished. Fun? Imagine a perfectly good situation twisted into the most absurdly grotesque shapes by the practiced hand of that master of comedy—Mack Sennett.

Imagine beauty and burlesque intermingling with a lavish hand and excruciating happenings portrayed by the most accomplished comedians that can be found in the country.

FINE SUPPORT FOR ELSIE FERGUSON

Elsie Ferguson is admirably supported in her splendid new Paramount-Artcraft picture, "The Witness for the Defense," at the American theater today and tomorrow. Playing opposite to Miss Ferguson is Vernon Steel, the talented young actor who has been seen in numerous pictures. Warner Oland, who appeared with Miss Ferguson in "The Avalanche," her recent Artcraft success, has a strong dramatic role. Wyndham Standing, a popular player well known to Paramount-Artcraft audiences, has an excellent role in the picture.

Among others in the cast are Cora Williams, who played the mother part in "His Parisian Wife" and in the "Eyes of the Soul" and who plays the part of the aunt of the heroine in this production. Blanche Standing, popular actress, who was seen in Marguerite Clark's picture called "A Honeymoon for Three," and Captain Charles Charles, a well known Paramount-Artcraft player, also is well cast. The support generally is of the finest description.

Forty-eight cities in the synod of Ohio have been selected for institutes in the 15 presbyteries of the state. Lisbon, this county, will also stage a two or three-day institute in connection with New Era activities in Mahoning presbytery.

A definite program will be presented at these institutes designed to enlist the entire membership of every Presbyterian church in development of social service as well as Christian service.

Now the Boy Wireless Can Get Busy Again

A Boy Wireless Station Fully Outfitted to Catch Messages Once Reserved to the Very Largest Plants.

By F. A. Collins

A NYONE can "listen-in" on the wireless telegraph messages sent out by the great European stations. An ingenious American boy with the aid of a home-made apparatus is now able to overhear the Eiffel Tower at Paris or Nauen, Germany, as well as thousands of other land and sea stations.

No other country in the world may boast so large an army of amateur wireless men as America. It was estimated before the war that there were at least 175,000 amateur stations scattered far and wide throughout the United States. Now that peace is assured the number will probably be even greater. During the war the science of wireless electricity, like other fighting weapons, was advanced in many ways, and the amateur can now take advantage of the new discoveries and listen-in across seas and continents.

A large proportion of the amateur stations are home-made affairs which enable the operators only to listen-in, not to send out messages. Everyone is familiar with the antennae draped against the skylines of cities large and small and often in remote country districts. The wires might be strung from the roofs of high buildings or from the eaves of some barn to a convenient haymow, but the ingenuity of the American boy was always equal to the occasion. Many of the amateur operators are school boys who chat among themselves in their leisure hours. The educational value of such training is, of course, very great.

With the increased facilities for long-distance work the American boy becomes in a sense a citizen of the world. From his home station, probably constructed in his study room, he enjoys a power which a generation ago would have seemed magical. If he chances to be studying French or German, for instance, he can improve the opportunity by listening to the stations of these countries sending in their native tongues.

The American amateur wireless operator has well earned the right to operate his own station and benefit by any advantages which follow. His record in the war was brilliant. Now that the fighting is over, it is permitted to tell the wonderful record of these amateurs in serving their country. At the beginning of the conflict there were upward of 200,000 amateur wireless men in the United States. These men or boys were, for the most part, self-taught, but they soon proved themselves to be highly efficient and held their own in competition with professional operators.

The Record of the Amateur

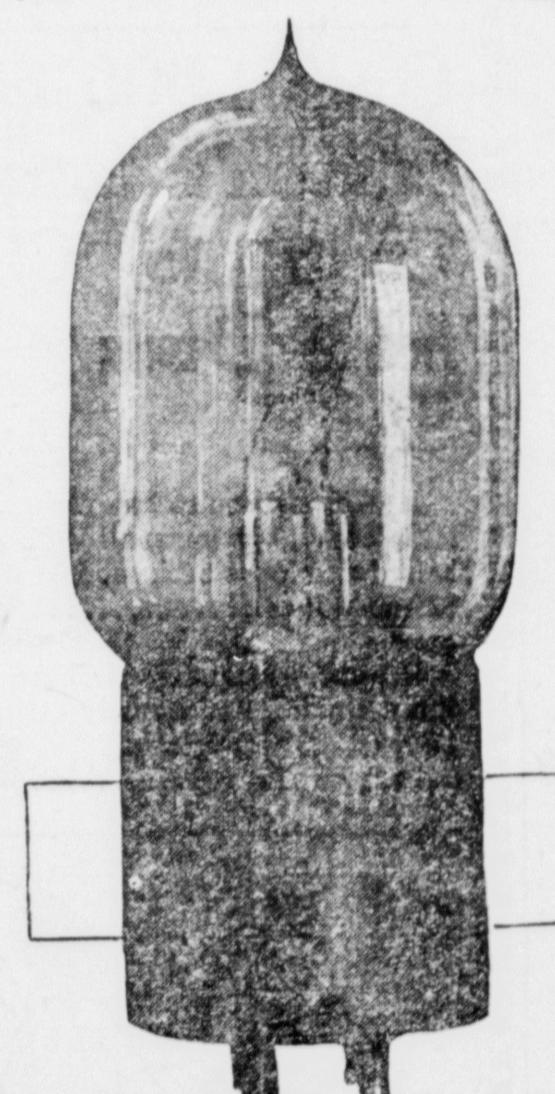

When the call was issued for wireless men the response throughout America was instantaneous. Thousands of these men were needed at once to take charge of the wireless stations on the merchant ships, the convoys and in hundreds of land and sea stations. To train green hands to do the work would have required months of valuable time. The government was able to recruit almost over night a vast force of experienced men. With a little subsequent training to fit them for special work these operators were able to fill the most important posts. More than 20,000 wireless operators were recruited in this way. It was estimated that the government saved $7,000,000 at this time which would otherwise have been expended in preliminary training. When the classes of wireless operators were opened at Columbia University it was found that more than 50 per cent. of the enlisted students were amateur wireless men who had already perfected themselves in the science.

The Amateur as Detective

From the first the amateur wireless operator played a conspicuous part. It is not generally known that it was an amateur who overheard the Germans in charge of the high-powered wireless station at Sayville, sending out unneutral messages, and reported the fact to the government. The Sayville station not only sent messages overseas to Germany, but was in direct communication with German ships at sea, including the raiders. The Germans, by abusing the courtesy extended to them, were thus sending out messages notifying their ships of the presence of merchant craft and other information of the utmost importance to them. This fact had escaped the vigilance of the government until an alert amateur detected the deception.

In competition with the expert professionals amateurs were often selected to fill the highest posts. It was an amateur who was chosen as assistant to the director of naval communication during the war, and the chief operator at Washington was a civilian commercial operator. The amateur wireless men became officers in all the different radio services and served as inspectors and carried on all details of the work.

It is a matter of special pride among the amateur wireless men that the radio operator aboard the NC-4 and the NC-1 in their historic flight across the Atlantic were amateurs. The post was one of the most difficult to fill in the service of the army or navy. It was necessary to find expert operators and mechanics as well, who could be depended upon to employ all their skill and resourcefulness in the face of the greatest danger. It is a great achievement for the American boy that self-taught youths hold the distinction of being the first radio men in history to fly across the Atlantic.

The wireless operator entrusted with the difficult task of transmitting and receiving messages on the SS. George Washington in carrying President Wilson back and forth to France was an amateur. He succeeded in handling, under very exacting conditions, an immense volume of business to the satisfaction of all. The list of amateur wireless men who have distinguished themselves might be continued indefinitely.

wireless men to employ a certain wave length the danger of interference will be done away with. It is not generally appreciated that many of the amateur stations contain elaborate apparatus, costing thousands of dollars, and the experimental work they carry on often leads to valuable discoveries and the advancement of the science.

As a result of the new wireless apparatus now available for amateurs long-distance work may be carried on with less experience than before the war. The vacuum tube invented by the eminent British scientist, Dr. Ambrose Fleming, enables the amateur to send messages thousands of miles, as well as to listen-in on European stations.

The Source of Cuttlebone

UNDER the skin of the back of the cuttlefish, or the squid, as this relative of the devil-fish is also known, is a bone (its substitute for a skeleton), which affords to caged birds suitable substance to sharpen their beaks upon. Oddly enough, no American species of squid furnishes a satisfactory cuttlebone. These bones come from China or from the Mediterranean.

Cuttlebone ground to powder is an important ingredient of dentifrices. The "ink" thrown out by the animal to cloud the water when trying to escape furnishes the "sepia" of commerce, being dried and pressed into cakes. It enters also into the composition of "india ink."

The cuttlefish has a beak of its own, parrot-like, sharp and powerful. It is remarkable to see these mollusks dashing right and left through a school of young mackerel, biting a triangular piece out of the neck of each fish and killing at every snap by severing the spinal cord. They are frightfully greedy creatures and will devour their own kind with avidity.

The mackerel, when grown, take their turn at gobbling the cuttles. Indeed, all the carnivorous animals that dwell in the sea feed largely upon squids. Even the whales devour them by myriads.

The chameleon, famous for changing its coat colors, is an amateur at camouflage compared with the squid, which automatically and instantly alters its hues as it passes over one kind of bottom or another, so as to match the background and obtain a relative invisibility.

Dropping to the sandy bottom, it assumes the color of sand. Among rocks it adopts the hues thereof. Swimming in the water after prey it is almost transparent.

MISS BOCH IS BRIDE OF JOSEPH THOMPSON

The marriage of Miss Evelyn Boch, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Boch of Thompson avenue, and Joseph Thompson of West Sixth street, was solemnized Tuesday afternoon at 4 o'clock in the home of the bride's parents, Rev. N. M. Crowe of Pittsburgh, formerly pastor of the Second Presbyterian church of this city, an uncle of the bridegroom, performed the ceremony. Miss Doris Boch, sister of the bride, and Harry Thompsons, of New York, were the attendants. Miss Alice Stevenson, cousin of the bride, sang a solo during the services. Miss Mary Howe of Beaver, Pa., played the wedding march.

The home was artistically decorated for the occasion. A reception was held following the wedding ceremony, after which the newlyweds left on their honeymoon trip. Upon their return they will be at home to their friends in the Martin apartments in East Third street.

Now the Boy Wireless Can Get Busy Again

A Boy Wireless Station Fully Outfitted to Catch Messages Once Reserved to the Very Largest Plants.

By F. A. Collins

ANYONE can "listen-in" on the wireless telegraph messages sent out by the great European stations. An ingenious American boy with the aid of a home-made apparatus is now able to overhear the Eiffel Tower at Paris or Nauen, Germany, as well as thousands of other land and sea stations.

No other country in the world may boast so large an army of amateur wireless men as America. It was estimated before the war that there were at least 175,000 amateur stations scattered far and wide throughout the United States. Now that peace is assured the number will probably be even greater. During the war the science of wireless electricity, like other fighting weapons, was advanced in many ways, and the amateur can now take advantage of the new discoveries and listen-in across seas and continents.

A large proportion of the amateur stations are home-made affairs which enable the operators only to listen-in, not to send out messages. Everyone is familiar with the antennae draped against the skylines of cities large and small and often in remote country districts. The wires might be strung from the roofs of high buildings or from the eaves of some barn to a convenient haymow, but the ingenuity of the American boy was always equal to the occasion. Many of the amateur operators are school boys who chat among themselves in their leisure hours. The educational value of such training is, of course, very great.

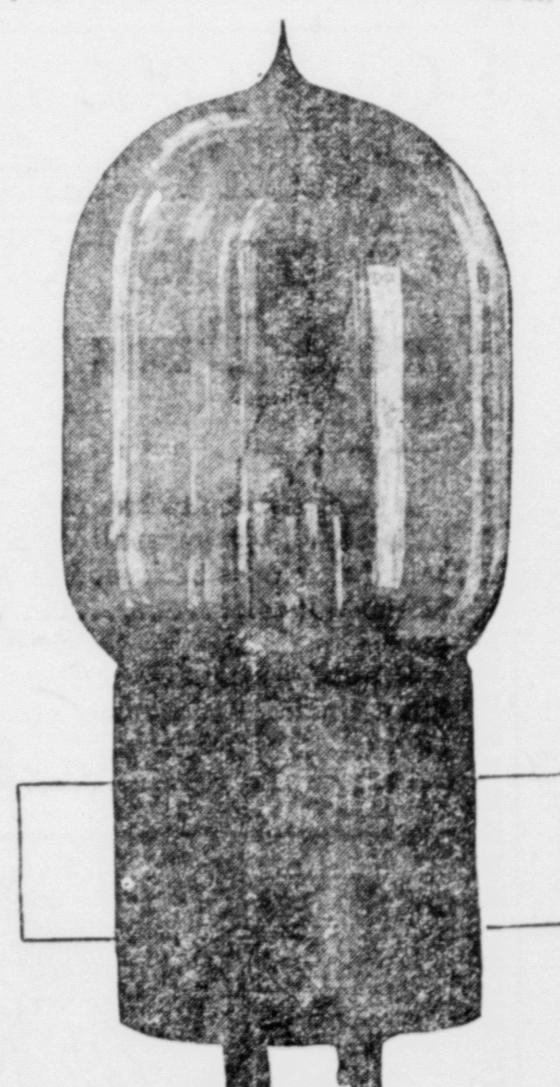

When the call was issued for wireless men the response throughout America was instantaneous. Thousands of these men were needed at once to take charge of the wireless stations on the merchant ships, the convoys and in hundreds of land and sea stations. To train green hands to do the work would have required months of valuable time. The government was able to recruit almost every night a vast force of experienced men. With a little subsequent training to fit them for special work these operators were able to fill the most important posts. More than 20,000 wireless operators were recruited in this way. It was estimated that the government saved $7,000,000 at this time which would otherwise have been expended in preliminary training. When the classes of wireless operators were opened at Columbia University it was found that more than 50 per cent of the enlisted students were amateur wireless men who had already perfected themselves in the science.

From the first the amateur wireless operator played a conspicuous part. It is not generally known that it was an amateur who overheard the Germans in charge of the high-powered wireless station at Sayville, sending out unneutral messages, and reported the fact to the government. The Sayville station not only sent messages overseas to Germany, but was in direct communication with German ships at sea, including the raiders. The Germans, by abusing the courtesy extended to them, were thus sending out messages notifying their ships of the presence of merchant craft and other information of the utmost importance to them. This fact had escaped the vigilance of the government until an alert amateur detected the deception.

In competition with the expert professionals amateurs were often selected to fill the highest posts. It was an amateur who was chosen as assistant to the director of naval communication during the war, and the chief operator at Washington was a civilian commercial operator. The amateur wireless men became officers in all the different radio services and served as inspectors and carried on all details of the work.

It is a matter of special pride among the amateur wireless men that the radio operator aboard the NC-4 and the NC-1 in their historic flight across the Atlantic were amateurs. The post was one of the most difficult to fill in the service of the army or navy. It was necessary to find expert operators and mechanicians as well, who could be depended upon to employ all their skill and resourcefulness in the face of the greatest danger. It is a great achievement for the American boy that self-taught youths hold the distinction of being the first radio men in history to fly across the Atlantic.

The wireless operator entrusted with the difficult task of transmitting and receiving messages on the SS. George Washington in carrying President Wilson back and forth to France was an amateur. He succeeded in handling, under very exacting conditions, an immense volume of business to the satisfaction of all. The list of amateur wireless men who have distinguished themselves might be continued indefinitely.

wireless men to employ a certain wave length the danger of interference will be done away with. It is not generally appreciated that many of the amateur stations contain elaborate apparatus, costing thousands of dollars, and the experimental work they carry on often leads to valuable discoveries and the advancement of the science.

As a result of the new wireless apparatus now available for amateurs long-distance work may be carried on with less experience than before the war. The vacuum tube invented by the eminent British scientist, Dr. Ambrose Fleming, enables the amateur to send messages thousands of miles, as well as to listen-in on European stations.

At a Military Wireless School.

Throughout the war the amateur stations were silenced by the government. With tens of thousands of wireless stations all over the country and especially along the coast, it would have been impossible to exercise a sufficiently strict censorship. In the hands of an unscrupulous operator the wireless apparatus might have done immeasurable harm. It would have been possible, for instance, to transmit messages to Mexico or ships at sea, and thus communicate more or less directly with Germany. The problem of the neutrality of wireless messages arose early in the war. It was decided that the invisible waves were contraband and must be controlled. A sharp lookout was held for any wireless spy. It was discovered, for example, that a high-powered wireless apparatus, which was removed in the day time, was strung from the rigging of an interned German steamer. Under cover of darkness messages were sent to enemy stations in distant lands and to ships far out at sea.

Regulating the Amateur

Even before the war it was found in some sections that the activities of a number of amateur wireless stations often interfered with the sending of government and commercial messages. To prevent this the amateur operators were obliged to pass examinations and be regularly licensed. It is now proposed to remove as many of the restrictions as possible. By requiring amateur

UNDER the skin of the back of the cuttlefish, or the squid, as this relative of the devil-fish is also known, is a bone (its substitute for a skeleton), which affords to caged birds suitable substance to sharpen their beaks upon. Oddly enough, no American species of squid furnishes a satisfactory cuttlebone. These bones come from China or from the Mediterranean.

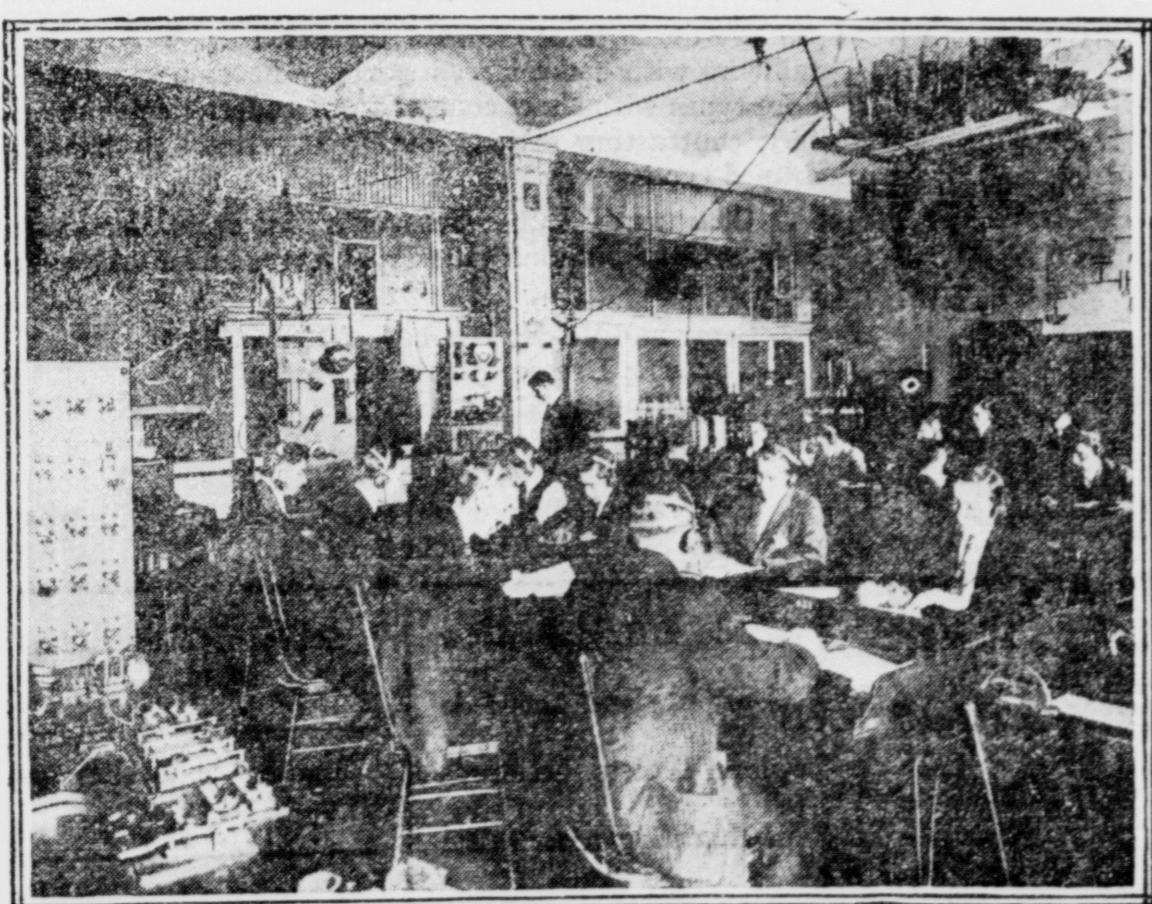

Cuttlebone ground to powder is an important ingredient of dentifrices. The "ink" thrown out by the animal to cloud the water when trying to escape furnishes the "sepia" of commerce, being dried and pressed into cakes. It enters also into the composition of "India ink."

The cuttlefish has a beak of its own, parrot-like, sharp and powerful. It is remarkable to see these mollusks dashing right and left through a school of young mackerel, biting a triangular piece out of the neck of each fish and killing at every snap by severing the spinal cord. They are frightfully greedy creatures and will devour their own kind with avidity.

The mackerel, when grown, take their turn at gobbling the cuttles. Indeed, all the carnivorous animals that dwell in the sea feed largely upon squids. Even the whales devour them by myriads.

The chameleon, famous for changing its coat colors, is an amateur at camouflage compared with the squid, which automatically and instantly alters its hues as it passes over one kind of bottom or another, so as to match the background and obtain a relative invisibility.

Dropping to the sandy bottom, it assumes the color of sand. Among rocks it adopts the hues thereof. Swimming in the water after prey it is almost transparent.

NEWS NOTES FROM MOVIELAND

VIRGINIA LEE CORBIN is the latest actress to be lured by the footlights. And her mother, Mrs. Corbin, claims that she is the youngest motion picture star to leave the screen for the speaking stage. Little Virginia is preparing a sketch for vaudeville called "Tears." Many of the little kiddies who saw Virginia in "Jack in the Beanstalk" and "The Babes in the Woods" will be sorry to see her leave pictures.

Virginia was born in Prescott, Arizona, on Dec. 5, 1912.

In 1915 her mother and father moved to Los Angeles. On the advice of many artists for whom Virginia had posed, Mrs. Corbin decided to take a look at the motion picture studios. She took Virginia with her one day when she visited the studios. One of the directors saw her and insisted on her working for a stay in a production he was making. That was the beginning. She made so good that they would not let her get away from pictures.

In October, 1916, she had been acting about a year. She played leading feminine roles for William Fox in "Jack and the Beanstalk," "The Babes in the Woods," "Treasure Island" and "Aladdin and the Wonderful Lamp."

Harold Lloyd Improving.
Harold Lloyd, the comedian, who was injured in a bomb explosion, is mending nicely and the surgeons now assume him of restoration to his brilliant career. His leading woman, Mildred Davis, is ready to rejoin him in studio work at a moment's notice. At last reports Lloyd was said to be two fingers shy after the accident.

Harry Morey in New Role.

Harry T. Morey soon will appear in a series of detective plays written especially for him by Van Rensselaer Dey, originator of the Nick Carter detective stories. Mr. Morey is one of the oldest stars in point of service. His features have covered a wide range of subjects, from society life to roughing it, but as a detective of the Nick Carter type he will enter a new field. The new stories will be of the ultra-melodramatic type where in the star can revel in different disguises, thrash the villain and make love to his heart's content.

What's in a Name?

Clara Whipple Young is to be groomed, it is reported, as a stellar success of Clara Kimball Young. The former is the wife of James Young, who succeeded the latter in that relation to him. Mr. Young is an able director and thinks he can repeat the success he had with his quandam partner.

Sals to Flush out Kidneys
Drink Plenty Water.

Uric acid in meat excites the kidneys, they become overworked; get sluggish, ache and feel like lumps of lead. The urine becomes cloudy; the bladder is irritated, and you may be obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night. When the kidneys clog you must help them flush off the body's urinous waste or you'll be a real sick person shortly. At first you feel a dull misery in the kidney region, you suffer from backache, sick headache, dizziness, stomach gets sour tongue coated and you feel rheumatic twinges when the weather is bad.

Eat less meat, drink lots of water, also get from any pharmacist four ounces of Jad Salts; take a teaspoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithium, and has been used for generations to clean clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity, also to neutralize the acids in urine so it no longer is a source of irritation, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to keep the kidneys clean and active. Druggists here say they sell lots of Jad Salts to folks who believe in overcoming kidney trouble while it is only trouble.

GRANDS WILL PLAY ALLIANCE

Opening Game of Schedule
Will Be Staged In Stark
County Town Next Sunday
Against Goat Hills—Practice This week.

Coach Jerry Osterhouse's Grand football team will inaugurate its season next Sunday afternoon at Alliance, meeting the famous Goat Hill Athletics of that place.

Wild as Cincinnati has been for the last few weeks, there was real calm and quiet here last night and the city is normal today aside from the increased population.

Every reserved seat has been sold for the first three games here. The general admission seats are being fought for by the hot-potato.

President Menocal of Cuba will not see the series. Victor Munos, dean of the Cuban scribes, arrived from Havana with several fellow deans and regretted to announce that somebody had pulled a bone in reporting that the president had wired for reservations.

There is at least one bird here who is not "set up" over the Reds. He is a taxi skipper. Meeting the New York scribblers at the station he inquired why the influx of visitors.

"Wot's comin' off," he asked blissfully, "a convention or something?"

The several hundred newspaper men here for the series will follow the teams to Chicago on a special train leaving Cincinnati at 11:30 Thursday night.

One of the outward signs that there is going to be a world's series pulled off here is found in the form of plaster statues of the Reds—on sale everywhere.

Even the uniforms worn during the campaign by the conquering Reds are being displayed in shop windows.

About Chronic Cataract. Chronic cataract results from a neglected cold or from a succession of colds, that is, before you are over one cold you contract another. The inflammation at first acute, becomes chronic. When the cold is properly treated and promptly cured there is no further trouble. Parents often neglect colds contracted by their children and chronic cataract, from which they never fully recover, is the result.

KID GLEASON

CINCY CALM ON
EVE OF OPENER

Guessing Contest Is On Regarding Identity of Pitchers
Who Will Start for Moran and Gleason—Cicotte and Sallee Are Favored.

By JACK VEICK.

CINCINNATI, Sept. 30.—The calm that comes before the storm settled over Redville today.

Fed up with baseball "dope" of every flavor—vintages ranging from 1859 to the present day—Cincinnati has settled down in comparative quiet to await realization of a dream of fifty years when the Reds and White Sox clash in the first game of the world's series tomorrow. Fair weather is predicted for Wednesday.

The good old town is overrun with visitors. Fans from every point of the compass are here for the biggest event in Cincinnati history. Hotels are bulging with guests and visitors and natives alike are spending the last few hours remaining before the first big battle in one grand guessing contest.

Cincinnati is for the Reds, first, last and all the time. But she isn't betting the bank roll recklessly. Odds still favored the White Sox today at six to five. Redville is just as anxious as she is enthusiastic.

Arguments pro and con on the merits of the rival teams have been played out. Figures favor Chicago. That much is admitted. And now the fanful souls are guessing regarding the identity of the pitchers for the opening game.

Pat Moran is enwrapped in mystery and Kid Gleason is as communicative as a mummy on the subject of boxmen for the opener. Cicotte and Sallee have been popularly elected, but it is by no means certain that they will be the chucks.

Moran may start Reuther or Fisher. Gleason may choose Williams.

box. That might mean much to the Reds.

On the other hand, should Williams start for the Sox, Moran may spring a surprise by sending Ray Fisher to the mound. Fisher has been held under cover, "it's said, and groomed for the "serious" Soo for the "dope" on pitchers.

The Sox came to town full of confidence. The players, thirty-two in all, are not worrying about who will win the championship. They have decided that in their own minds already. The members of the Reds have been enjoying races and resting up for the supreme test.

Gleason's athletes went to Redland field early today for a long practice session. They went to search for air pockets, mole hills, camouflaged pobbles on the infield and high lights and shadows. They will have the physical defects and assets of the ball yard on a card index system by yesterfall, if that means anything.

Aside from the fact that "both teams are confident" and all hands capable of packing away three squares a day, there is little more to be said for the teams.

Among the hundreds—nay, thousands—of visitors are some 300 newspaper experts, deans and near-deans, from all parts of the country. Said deans will be given their tickets and assignments in the press box, atop the roof of the grandstand, today. Tomorrow they will get a bird's-eye view of the first game. But Cincinnati and "Uncle Gary" are doing their best.

Among arrivals from various points of the compass on the eve of battle tonight will be 200 Woodland Bards from Chicago. These White Sox boosters will occupy one whole floor of the Havlon hotel. The White Sox are quartered at the Hotel Sinton, which is also headquarters for the experts.

Tonight the nobis athletes of both teams will indulge in final "skull practice." Kid Gleason and his staff of advisers, chief among whom is Eddie Collins, will give the Sox the last word.

Pat Moran and his staff, which, it develops, includes Johnny Evers, Fred Mitchell, Buck Herzog, Grover Alexander and Bill Killifer, will hand the Reds their final earful. Then the good old burg will roll over and snooze to await the dawn—and the day of days.

LOCAL LAD INJURED

IN MOTORCYCLE CRASH

Skidding into a truck on a wet driveway, Private Dale S. Walter, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Walter of St. Clair avenue, a motorcycle driver at Fort McHenry, Baltimore, Md., sustained lacerations of the legs requiring 84 stitches to close.

Details of the accident were received here Monday, supplementing a brief telegram stating that Walter had been injured. Walter re-enlisted in the army after his return from a year's service overseas.

Liberty loan campaigns. He also served as a Y. M. C. A. physical director for five months in Camp Lee, Va.

Gymnasium classes for the junior, intermediate and employed boys' divisions will begin the next part of the week or the first of next week, Cramer announced Monday. Pending the arrival of a physical director, Cramer will charge of gymnasium work. Formation of a Hi-Y club, woman's gymnasium and swimming class and reorganization of the employed boys' membership are among other features of work planned. Cramer stated Tuesday.

The way of many others of its kind after about a month's trial. The reason for its failure is simply told. When teams were scheduled to play, players failed to appear on the grounds for the game, consequently, game after game was postponed until finally interest died out and the league after a few weeks' existence, gave a final gasp and expired. The players themselves were responsible.

From this it might be ascertained that baseball in the city during the 1919 season was not a howling success.

CANTON ELEVEN
TAKING FORM

CANTON, Sept. 30.—With fourteen famous college football players under contract with the Canton professional football team, headed by Jim Thorpe, the roster of the United States champions has taken decided form.

Football enthusiasts here are expressing satisfaction over the signing of Jock Sutherland, all-American guard of the University of Pittsburg for two seasons. These are the ones that have been brought to the attention of the public. There may have been half a dozen more that were fought out minus the vaudeville.

Weavers and Chester first occupied the limelight in championship engagements. Weavers lost. Salineville then challenged the West Virginia outfit and won the first game, and as far as we can see now, it appears they are going to keep right on winning. Those are the only two actual championship contests played but challenges hurled around prominently would make them many more if the challengers always accepted.

Newell tried to coerce Chester into a series of games. Dickey's positive belief being that the county teams should play it out before taking on Salineville. And Chester said "may-be." Following Newell's def., Sherwood arose from a state of inactivity and demanded that Newell meet them before making a play for the championship. If Dickey made a reply there was nothing ever made known publicly about it. Previous to this Salineville challenged the Weavers All-Stars for a series. Managers Carey and Aldridge refused to even consider the matter and all plans expired right then and there. Within the last couple of weeks Shel Pyle and Tap Jackson, now handling the Weaver All-Stars, tried to force an issue with the Weavers Independents, but Dad Jones, who is claimed to have a representative club in tow, did not come out with an acceptance. At different times before that Helmes had challenged the Newell outfit and Newell has asked for games with Weavers.

Thus the game in this district this season, after plans in the early part of the year pointed to a banner year in baseball here following the return of many players who had been in the service, fizzled out into nothing more than a series of challenges, some of which were played while others were not.

The city baseball league, which started out so auspiciously also went

TAD'S TID-BITS

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—"When I was a kid I thought it was ridiculous for old timers to talk about old timers," said Jim Corbett, Saturday, just before he left for Los Angeles.

"It's the same today with the new fight fans. You know I saw most all of the greatest fighters come and go. I was looking at fights when Kilrain, Johnny Hergert, Tommy Warren, Griff, Jack Dempsey, Mike Donovan, Sullivan, Dawson, Billy Edwards, Needham, Tommy Ryan and hundreds of others were in their top form."

"I want to tell you that AMATEURS TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO DID THINGS THAT PROFESSIONALS OF TODAY CAN'T DO. There were two amateur lightweights at that time in San Francisco—Tommy McCord and Frank Cooley—who were the best I ever watched. They never turned professional. They had footwork and feinting down to a science. It would be a treat to see them meet some of the lightweights of today. They'd show them up."

"You know, I have to tell you this before I can tell you who the greatest fighter I ever saw was because I'm going back. Get me?"

"Let's go right up to the heavies of today and the old timers. Fans want to know if Champion Jack Dempsey could have beaten John L. Sullivan. I say that there's no way to tell. Dempsey is a wonderful fellow. He's the hardest hitter I think I ever saw, but he hasn't fought enough to give us a good line on him. I mean that he hasn't met enough tough fellows who would go along with him. He may lack something. He may get leg weary or blow his punching powers. Then again he might prove to be the greatest heavyweight fighter that ever lived. We'll have to wait and see."

"Sullivan in his day was a big, hard man. He was as tough as they came. He could take them on the chin or in the body and just hunger for more, and he could hit, too. He hit like Dempsey. Why he'd bust a fellow on the back of the head and knock him out. He toured the country when he was full of booze and kicked every one he met inside of four rounds. Get that? Stiff as a board and kicking them all. It's hard to compare them."

"I'm going back, you see," as the fellow said when they brought him the ox-tail soup.

"You had to go kind of far back for that."

Great Old-Time Lightweights.

"There were lightweights in the older days who were terrors, too. Jack McAuliffe, for instance, was a wonderful man. Kid Lavigne was a powerful little fellow with a world of stamens, and then again there was Gans. You know, GANS USED TO COME AROUND TO MY TRAINING QUARTERS AND BEG FOR BOXING LESSONS. He was probably the greatest admirer that I ever had, and that's saying quite a good deal."

"Do I mean that they could have beaten Leonard? No, I don't say that. Leonard to me is a great fighter. I don't know whether he could take it like Lavigne, but he doesn't have to. If they can't hit him, why should he prove to the mob that he can stop them with his chin and then get up? I don't get that stuff at all."

"Another old timer, a ring marvel, was Tommy Ryan. Oh, I don't think there's a man of his weight in the ring today who would have stood a chance with him. He knew the game inside and out. Couldn't he hit? Ryan could feint and knew why he did it. Feinting is a lost art nowadays."

"But my greatest? I have to say Peter Jackson. Mind you, I don't say that he towered over the other fellows. I've just mentioned, but I think as a ringster he was the star. I saw him box an exhibition with Fitzsimmons at the old California Athletic club, and it was like a professor giving his pupil a lesson. HE JUST MADE FITZSIMMONS LOOK LIKE A SUCKER. No wonder Fitzsimmons challenged the world, bar Jackson. He knew what he was about. I saw Jackson spar four rounds with Choyinski, too, and it was the same. Joe couldn't touch him with a basket full of choyskins."

"You know, Jackson stood six feet one and one-half inches tall and weighed 205 pounds, stripped. Think of that. And then, think again of his speed, his footwork, his feinting, and his punch. He had everything. What more could a man want? He knocked out Frank Slavin, the greatest slugger of his time. Just outslugged him. Clever fellows were the same with him. He'd outbox them. He was a student."

"I saw Jackson box and fought him myself, so I ought to have a pretty fair idea of what the fellow could do, shouldn't I? You know we fought for over four hours at the California club, and they called it no contest."

Jackson Could Slug and Box Equally Well.

"I'LL NEVER FORGET THAT NIGHT AS LONG AS I LIVE."

"Early in the fight I started boxing with him, and he went right along. I thought he'd tire after a while. We went for fifteen rounds or so, and it seemed to me that he was tiring, so I started to slug for all I was worth. After a few rounds Billy Delaney said to me, 'This fellow's a better slugger than he's a boxer, Jim. You'd better take it easy. He has weight, height and reach on you, and you won't go long at that gait!'

"I began to think so myself and went back to boxing and footwork, where I was much safer. I've fought a lot of fellows since, but NEVER IN MY LIFE WAS I SO BEWILDERED AS THAT NIGHT. The fights that I lost after that were one-punch things. I was winning up to the time I got the punch and was never worried, but with Jackson I had to use everything I had to get by, and I worked hard. I never saw a man who could follow you, no matter how you elected to fight. Box or slug, he didn't care."

"I was tired after that fight. I wasn't tired for a day or two—I WAS TIRED FOR SIX MONTHS AFTER IT."

"Yes, he could beat any heavy that I ever saw."

"Jeffries? A wonderful fellow. You know—a wonderful fellow for a man without the fighting spirit. Jeff, naturally left-handed and with tremendous power behind it, was tough; but I can look back and see that Jackson with everything a fighter needs, and I can't help saying he was my ideal lighting man."

REALTY BOOM
HITS CHESTER

Real estate is on the boom in Chester, according to a statement made Tuesday by a local dealer.

There's all kinds of demands for houses," was the declaration of the dealer. "Most any kind of a house is salable and the demands for houses for rent far exceeds the property available to let."

Hundreds of houses in Chester have changed ownership since the first of the year, it is said. One house, it is said, has been transferred three times since January 1.

Chester, not unlike many other cities, is facing a big scarcity of houses, due, it is believed, to the lack of any new building. But one new house has been erected in Chester in 1919, it is said. Because of the high prices of material and labor but little repairing or remodeling is being done.

Several new property deals were reported in Chester yesterday. Oscar Scott has purchased the Harry Wilson property in Carolina Avenue. The house has been occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Earl Mahan and family who will remove into the Austin Stewart residence, corner Carolina Avenue and Second street. Mr. Scott will take possession of his new home next week.

Harry Wilson, manager of an East Liverpool shoe store, has closed a deal for the purchase of the John Schrader property in California Avenue and will shortly remove his household goods there. Mr. Wilson is now residing in the Dendrick property in California Avenue.

Over two hundred Methodist Episcopal churches are in the Pittsburgh district and everyone will be represented at the conference. The meeting will continue over until Tuesday of next week. The assignment of ministers will take place next Monday. Whether or not Dr. Bickford will be returned to Chester could not be learned last evening as the appointment of pastors is left to a committee.

Just this:

A chance to rub elbows with foreign folks in strange parts of the world.

The chance for good honest work on shipboard—the kind of work that teaches you something real; the kind of work that puts beef on your shoulders and hair on your chest.

You will get 30 care-free vacation days a year, not counting shore leave in home or foreign ports.

You will have the kind of comradeship in travel that sailors know.

You will have regular pay, over and above your meals, lodging, and first uniform outfit—good stuff, all of it.

You can join for two years.

When you get through you'll be physically and mentally "tuned up" for the rest of your life. You'll be ready through and through for SUCCESS.

There is a Recruiting Station right near you. If you don't know where it is, your Postmaster will be glad to tell you.

100 JOBS OPEN AT NEW PLANT

McNicol Prepares Porcelain Shop In East End for Yellow Ware Plant.

Acquisition last week by the D. E. McNicol Pottery company of the General Porcelain company's plant in the East End, marks the passing of the last idle industrial works in East Liverpool.

The new plant, which has not been operated for nearly six years, is to be converted into a yellowware plant and will employ in the neighborhood of 100 workmen. It is the plan of the McNicol company to open the new works the first of the year.

When the old plant was closed, practically all the machinery was removed. This must be replaced, while other extensive repairs will be made before the plant is ready for operation.

Eighty-six candidates took the inner circle degree, Protected Home Circle, at exercises conducted last week at Eureka hall in Mulberry street, according to the report of officials of Stratton Circle No. 40, East Liverpool, which was issued Tuesday.

The candidates met in Stratton circle's hall in Washington street at 6:30 p. m. and marched in a body to the Y. M. C. A. where a corps of girls in white served the banquet. Following this the prospective members of the lodge repaired to Eureka circle hall in East End where initiatory exercises were held. Among the candidates were several veterans of the world war. Over a hundred members of the degree were in attendance.

This was the largest class of candidates ever admitted to the inner circle in the Ohio valley district and forms part of the district's offering in the campaign for 10,000 new members which just closed. The total membership reported as a result of the drive, it is announced, reached 10,844, gained during a period of six months. Due to the untiring efforts of State Deputy Robert Raffle of Pennsylvania avenue, the local lodge
